

ABSTRACT

The invention concerns a method and system for producing a document containing user requested information, identifying an advertising space, outside an area 5 of the document to be occupied by the information, and printing the document with advertising material in the space.

(Figure 6)